Pope names three new Auxiliary Bishops for the Archdiocese of Chicago!

You probably read the good news of the newly appointed Bishops for our local Church by Pope Francis by now. The Chicago Catholic newspaper wrote on July 3rd, 2018:

Pope Francis appointed Father Mark Bartosic, Father Robert Casey and Father Ronald Hicks as auxiliary bishops of the Archdiocese of Chicago on July 3.

At the same time, he accepted the resignations of auxiliary bishops George Rassas and Francis Kane, both of whom are past age 75.

The new bishops are expected to be ordained to the episcopacy and installed at a Mass at Holy Name Cathedral on Sept. 17. All three of the bishops-elect were ordained for the Archdiocese of Chicago on May 21, 1994.

Congratulations to Frs. Ronald, Mark, and Robert. Please keep them in your prayers as they prepare themselves to assist Cardinal Cupich to lead our Archdiocese.

Stories from the Chinese Apostolate

When asked what inspired her to translate at the Post Office, Kalina Pon shared, “I sensed it would be a great way for my daughters and I to spend quality time together. Plus, it helps my daughters fine tune their social skills.”

Like many mothers in Chinatown, Kalina devotes a great deal of her time to her daughters and to family life.

Thanks to St. Therese, where her and her daughter are choir members, and at school, where she faithfully served on the school board for many years, Kalina’s parenting perspectives have matured over time. “I always tell parents, ‘Get involved! As parents, we learn as we go. Thanks to the trust built up through committed relationships at St. Therese, parents have unique opportunities to grow in mind, heart and spirit.”

“All Parents want the best for their children. However, in today’s competitive and fast-paced environment, parents can easily push their children to the brink of exhaustion. Unless parents are careful, they can end up adding, not subtracting, to their children’s anxiety levels.

Kalina has learned that the kids put enough pressure on themselves; that as a mother, she should be a source of comfort rather than stress. Something as simple as having a pot of English tea and biscuits with her children is more effective than constant pressure and nagging. Over a hot cup of earl grey tea, they have built a relationship of trust. “I used to identify with the role of tiger mother. Now, thanks to my Catholic faith, I possess the necessary interpretive skills to reframe this role into something more life-giving.”

If you are interested in volunteering as a translator at the post office this summer, please reach out to Perry or Tom. PerryYLau@gmail.com or Tom Howard at 773 749 2065. God bless.

Respect Life Corner

AN ENCOUNTER WITH THE SUFFERING CHRIST

by Maureen Bailey

"It started as a routine ultrasound," begins Danny Eisenbacher. He and his wife Jeannine were expecting their fifth child.

The doctor discovered that the baby had anencephaly, a condition in which the child's brain fails to develop properly and the baby's head is noticeably misshapen. Babies with the condition usually do not survive more than a few days after birth.

There was never a question in Danny and Jeannine's minds as to whether they would accept and love the child God gave them. They would never consider aborting their daughter and they made their medical providers aware of this fact. Still, they were pressed to consider all their "options":

"How many times have we been asked already if we would like to terminate. It is not at all an option for us. This is our child that we are going to love and nurture for as long as we can. And actually, it isn't even our child ultimately. It is God's child. Like all of our children."

They named her Angela and commended their prayers to, among others, St. Angela. Knowing that God works in mysterious ways, they prayed daily for Angela's miraculous healing but they also prepared for the worst. They wondered: Will her siblings have a chance to meet and hold her? And how will they deal with the death of their baby sister?

This was also for them a time of sorrow, knowing that the baby likely would not live for more than a few days after birth. Angela was born April 3. Danny and Jeannine embraced every moment that came with her labor and delivery. They did not receive the miraculous cure for which they had prayed so fervently, but they were granted what they called "the miracle of having some time with her." Angela was baptized, confirmed and anointed. Three days after her birth, she died surrounded by her parents, grandparents and friends.

Giving birth to Angela gave the Eisenbachers a chance to meet face-to-face a precious if bittersweet gift. In the face of every human being lies an encounter with God. Carrying, giving birth to and caring for a child with a disability is an encounter with our suffering-God, with Jesus crucified.

As Christians, we know that the crucifixion is not the final word. Their Calvary, our Calvaries will end. And one day, they will rejoice with Angela in the company of our risen Lord.

"BEING WEAK and STRONG" by Sister Caritas

Many times I have parents and grandparents talking to me about their children. "When they were young they went to Church. Now they do not go at all. I don't know what to do."

Our readings today give us some ideas about what we can do. The first reading talks about being sent to people who do not listen. God says, "And whether they hear or resist- for they are a rebellious house- they shall know that a prophet has been among them." Even if they do not change, they will know that they have been told and shown the right thing to do. We do not have to annoy others or "strong arm them." WE need to give them our good example, pray for them, love them, and encourage them by reminding them, when it is appropriate.

Paul tells us that in his ministry he experienced weakness. It was God's way of keeping him humble. Frequently we depend on ourselves to accomplish things or we take the results of God's actions, grace and work as our own. The truth is, we cannot do much by ourselves. We need to acknowledge and know the good we see being done is really the action of God through us. Our weakness helps us to realize the things we see done are really God's doing. If we are aware of our limitations and open ourselves to the action of God, God can use us to accomplish good for and among others. We are not the ones who make it happen. We are the instrument God uses to make God happen. Like St. Paul we will acknowledge that "when I am weak then I am strong..."

On Sunday, at the "Chinese Summer Fest, as we try to evangelize and share God's word, we can be praying for God's grace and showing care toward others. This may help God to use us and touch other peoples' lives and hearts. The Holy Spirit will act through us.
